

Just as innovators like Volta, Ampere, and Ohm took electrotechnics and applied it to biology, so were Sir Isaac Newton's theories on physics, once the foundation of European scientific theory, surpassed and succeeded in the 19th century by non-linear quantum theories posed by Albert Einstein and Stephen Hawking's.

Several different researchers, including Royal Raymond Rife, created related energy theories and supported the carrying out of frequency studies to assess the electrical characteristics of different substances. These efforts resulted in the discovery that all substances have their own characteristic frequencies and resonance frequencies. Each kind of substance is differentiated from other kinds by its electrical features.

In the 1950's, Dr. Reinhold Voll became a pioneer in the development of bio-resonance in Germany. His work provided a wealth of knowledge in the field of the body electric.

Some studies indicated that substances were able to be influenced if they were alternately impacted by electric vibrations. From this information, the theory was developed that, in the same way in which high frequencies can break glass by increasing the length of their resonant frequency, some frequencies can also destroy the cause of an illness. And just as glass can be made thicker and stronger, tissues of the body can be buffered and reinforced to remain healthy in the very same way. Impairment of a physiological condition can also quickly be recognized through the reactions that cell structures give to different electric frequency patterns.

As soon as the SCIO came into being, its potential use in health care became obvious and it gained immense popularity, dividing the medical profession: Some saw this as a chance to advance the medical world, while others saw it as potential political and economic technology.

The leading figures in the medical profession who supported the new movement were soon exposed to massive political pressure. However, they carried on with their research and began to work with the new science. It was no longer possible to ignore the new medicine!

WHY THE SCIO?

The SCIO is the leading analytic and therapeutic device today. The days when you could only react to illnesses are over! That's why thousands of people are turning to the SCIO for a dis-ease free future.

DISCLAIMER: This device is to be used as a biofeedback and stress management system only. It is designed for stress detection and stress reduction. This device does not diagnose. Only a licensed healthcare practitioner can diagnose a patient.

THE SCIO SYSTEM FOR PROFESSIONAL USERS

300100-A
Revised 18 September 2008

WHAT IS THE SCIO?

The SCIO (Scientific Consciousness Interface Operations) is an ambulant cardiocograph with passive sensor and a universal electrophysiological device that coordinates a complex electro-modal, biofeedback program with computer software in order to gather bioenergetic information from 50 different channels of a patient's body. The system contains a computer timer chip that acts as a processor in terms of aligning the computer interface and the SCIO hardware. The information is gathered from the body through 12 measurement electrodes in head and limb straps, providing an accurate and precise picture of the patient's general state of health. Operating at a speed of 120 bit/ms, the SCIO selects and lists the information in order of importance. The electric reactivity of the patient (defined as the biological reaction rate or the biological speed of reaction of the body) is measured determining each patient's individual reaction to different substances and influences.

Once you begin the relaxation training, the SCIO will also be able to recognize and immediately correct early changes in the body so efficiently that manifestations of conditions may not develop at all.

PERSONAL RESULTS

The SCIO works through a cybernetic feedback-loop established with the patient. It is as if the patient and the computer were "clasping hands" ensuring that the appropriate relaxation training and muscle re-education is always individually catered to the patient. Additionally, since any possible influence on the patient's field of energy caused by the presence of the therapist is completely eliminated with this kind of relaxation training and muscle reeducation, the SCIO is often used in parallel with Auto-Meridian Therapy, Chakra Therapy, Rife Therapy, Auto-Tri-Vector Therapy, color and music therapies, bone and tooth therapies and with bio-resonance.

TAILORED TO PATIENTS' NEEDS

The SCIO is the only system in the world which unites 50 different methods of bioenergetic analysis and relaxation training.

By using the different amplifications and frequencies, the SCIO tailors its functions automatically to the patient. Through the SCIO process, we can test patients for over 9,000 test substance frequency patterns (specifically, monitoring the speed of biological reactions). The patient's reaction to different test substances (pathogens, medicine, hyper-active stimulants, etc.) is visualized by way of a color diagram and a number scale.

This kind of relaxation training has been successfully performed with thousands of patients all over the world. The SCIO is truly an indispensable device and will prove essential for all healthcare practitioners prepared to leave outdated medical practices behind in order to participate in advanced, modern medicine.

SCIO HEALTH ANALYSIS PROGRAMS

ELECTRO-ACUPUNCTURE-MERIDIAN PROGRAM: Harmonizes one's acupuncture points and meridians utilizing a frequency technique.

RIFE TECHNIQUE OR AUTO FREQUENCY SYSTEM: Stimulates and harmonizes one's polarity (including the organs and other systems).

TRI-VECTOR: Filters the body's own frequencies and, this way, sets the accurate tri-vector field for the best method of preservation of health.

COLOR OR MUSIC RELAXATION TRAINING: Patients are exposed to the most optical colors and stimulating music during their session.

SCALAR MUSCLE REEDUCATION: Works on the hormone and endocrine system and with the chakra system.

HOMEOPATHIC ACTIVATION SOFTWARE: Over 3,000 homeopathic substances and crystalline energies can be individually recommended and administered to patients.

ENERGETIC BONE ANALYSIS: Energetic disorders of a single bone or parts of the skeleton are examined on organic as well as well as psychosomatic grounds.

NLP (Neuro-Linguistic Programming): Including; pain relaxation training, tooth and jaw analysis; brainwave pattern analysis, biorhythm and miasma analysis, detoxification, organ analysis, wellness analysis, nutritional mapping and other functions.

NUTRITIONAL ANALYSIS: A series of tests that monitors a patient's vitamin, mineral, enzyme and amino acid levels.

THE HYPER-REACTIVITY TESTING SCREEN: Tests for a patient's sensitivity to up to 300 different hyper-active stimulants.

THE "VIRTUAL DOCTOR": This program enables the therapist to prepare an exact analysis of possible health risks.

ADDITIONAL TECHNICAL SETTINGS

3D OBSERVATION

A 3D representation which allows one to examine all substances in the subject's energetic system.

CYBERNETIC CONNECTION

The SCIO's unique cybernetic connection makes it possible to measure the energetic changes of the biological speed, which can be either corrected or improved.

TRI-VECTOR FIELDS OF ENERGY

The electronic potential of a patient's body is measured applying over 40 virtual values providing the therapist with the key information necessary for the therapeutic and diagnostic process.

CONSTANT FEEDBACK

Unlike other programs, the SCIO makes it possible to observe the patient throughout the entire session. This guarantees the accuracy of each test and the individuality of every treatment. However, the program also includes an additional biofeedback system for patients. The SCIO software comes with a larger number of 3D body images and videos that the patient can follow on a screen.

Control is accomplished on two fields. The SCIO interacts with the clasp software (the "pure" analysis and training program) so that information is presented on the screen to the patient as the energetic aspects of the program are in process. The SCIO also has its own feedback system which enables the therapist to monitor the patient's session. Another SCIO function will autonomously observe a comparable pattern and then provide analysis based on the program menu included in the processor. 3D body images will present the data in full color using the Body Viewer.

HOW WAS THE SCIO CREATED?

The SCIO was developed by Professor Bill Nelson in the 1980's, following twenty years of research in the field of bioenergetic medicine and bio-resonance therapy in the USA. However, as so many scientific advancements are, the discovery of this amazing innovation was discovered "on the backs of giants."
